About Our Directors

Professor Sarah Joseph (Director):

Sarah is back from her sojourn at Cambridge University and her safari in Africa. She recently gave a paper in Samoa and participated in a human rights workshop in Indonesia. She has resumed her duties as full-time Director of the Castan Centre.

Melissa Castan (Deputy Director):

Melissa is continuing her work on professional development in Native Title Representative Bodies and is teaching in the LLB and LLM programs. She recently organised and ran the study tour to Israel which occurred in December.

Dr Julie Debeljak (Deputy Director):

Julie is currently on maternity leave and is focussing on spending time with her family. She continues to work on her ARC Linkage Grant on 'Australia's Response to Trafficking in Persons' in the spare moments between caring for her new child.

Dr Paula Gerber (Deputy Director):

Paula has received her PhD (see article on page 5) and is enjoying the free time she has to spend with her daughter. Paula is starting to prepare for the up coming, second annual Human Rights Mooting competition, after the success of last year's competition.

Professor Susan Kneebone (Deputy Director):

Susan is currently focussing on her ARC Linkage Grant on 'Australia's Response to Trafficking in Persons'. While not teaching this semester, Susan is busy with a number of research projects and has recently returned from Egypt where she presented a paper on trafficking of women and children in South East Asia (see page 4 for more details).

Dr Adam McBeth (Deputy Director):

Adam is currently on study leave and has embarked for the United States where he will be presenting papers at three different conferences. He will make the most of his trip and plans to travel across the north eastern part of the USA and Canada as well as the mid-west and west coasts of the US.
