

Il Solito Posto

Il Solito Posto is Italian for 'the usual place', suggesting a friendly and comfortable environment for patrons, ideal for a quick bite to eat with some friends before a Tuesday night movie or after that Friday night drinking session. But it is also that little bit out of the way, and so ideal for that romantic first date.

Il Solito Posto is located in the basement of 113 Collins Street (enter via George Parade). There's a restaurant and a bistro café with full bar facilities. Having eaten several times at the bistro (it's more affordable), you can sense that the crowd must have an intimate knowledge of fine Italian food. The menu is relatively small, with a range of pastas, minestrone soup and salads. But the menu and all surrounding items are in Italian. And while you can guess that "acqua" is the water, it will take some help from the waiter to work out what is in some of the pastas.

The food is affordable and tasty and the bistro is still serving hot meals after 11.00 pm. It's generally pretty busy when you get there, so you may have to wait for a table. But the food will come out quickly and you should be satisfied.

Also, as a special offer, if you leave your car at the car park at 111 Flinders Lane after 6.00 pm, patrons can have their car parking validated and pay only $2.00, making it an even more affordable night for you and your friends.
