Have you ever been an office bearer?

Then you probably have ALIA/LAA records under your bed...

Or in the shed/garage/spare room. Now is your chance to get rid of them! ALIA NSW will be hosting a special half-day workshop on Saturday 4 August with archivist Anne Cooke. Anne was one of the authors of ALIA's archive policy and has worked extensively on the LAA/ALIA archives prior to the re-location of the Association's national office to Canberra.

This free workshop is especially designed for current and former office bearers. All you have to do is turn up with your box of bits. Anne will provide a brief introduction on what to keep or chuck out and will be on hand to answer questions along the way. Once you have sorted your group's records, we will box them up and lodge them for you — so you can go home empty-handed. Non-ALIA groups are also welcome to attend at a nominal rate of $25 per group.

For further information and bookings contact Jo-anne Fuller, ALIA NSW Local Presence, tel 02 9906 6000, e-mail jojo1@ozemail.com.au. ∎

Product news

Encyclopedia of Life Sciences, available in twenty volume print and on-line, is the largest, most comprehensive reference work ever produced in the life and biomedical sciences. http://www.els.net delivers up-to-date, accessible, high quality content for students, professionals and researchers alike. Unprecedented in scope, it is an essential, dynamic resource for the new millennium.

Meditext full text Medical Information for Australasian Health Services
RMIT Publishing is pleased to announce the release of Meditext, full text medical information for Australasian health services.

Meditext Fulltext Medical Information for Australasian Health Services

Meditext offers a collection of journal articles from more than 140 Australasian medical and health journals indexed in AMI, the Australasian Medical Index and the Australasian subset of Medline.

The next full-text product due for release in August will be Austlaw full-text legal information for Australasia.

For further information visit http://www.rmitpublishing.com.au.

Softlink Library Corporate
Softlink Library Corporate is a new information and library management software package which includes SDI (Selective Dissemination of Infomation), journals management, budget control, Web OPAC and extensive reporting facilities including delivery of all reports via e-mail. Contact Softlink Australia: info@softlink.com.au or phone 1800 777 037 or 07 3801 4111. ∎

ALIAppointments: For details visit: http://www.alia.org.au/employment/vacancies.html